The power sector is going through a period of unprecedented change due to technology advances and the growing momentum to achieve a low carbon future. In many markets, energy policies are being considered to respond to the need to be more energy efficient and reduce emissions driving transformation of the sector. In mature markets such as Australia, ageing thermal generation assets are typically being replaced by different technologies including integrated renewables and energy storage.

Operation and resiliency of the transmission and distribution networks will continue to be challenged by the growing levels of variable renewable energy.

The impacts from behind the meter, electric transportation and other penetrative technologies also need to be managed and integrated into network operation to ensure and enhance power system stability. Smart grid and microgrid technologies are increasingly being deployed to manage this impact.

Jacobs power consultancy focuses on working with clients to assist in the development and implementation of pathways to a zero carbon future. Jacobs play a leading role helping our clients respond to the demands of the changing market. They regularly advise government, regulatory bodies, investors, developers and utilities. Jacobs developed the underlying model for the Finkel review of the reliability and security of electricity supply. They provide ongoing studies for State Governments assessing the impact of proposed energy market policies, model the benefits of proposed major interconnector transmission projects, support the development of pumped storage and battery storage projects and are working with yjeir clients to deliver the majority of wind and solar projects across Australia.

Jacobs has been a CEDA member since 2007.

keynote speaker

Audrey Zibelman

Managing Director and Chief Executive Officer,
Australian Energy Market Operator (AEMO)

Twitter: @aazibelman

Audrey Zibelman leads AEMO, the independent gas and electricity system and market operator in Australia, an organisation that has primarily responsibility of managing and maintaining energy system security for all Australians. As Managing Director and CEO, she also serves on the Energy Security Board.

Audrey has extensive experience in the public, private and not-for profit energy and electricity sectors in the United States, most recently having held the positions of Commissioner and Chair of the New York State Public Service Commission (NYPSC). During her tenure at the NYPSC, she led the design and implementation of extensive regulatory and retail market changes to modernise and transform the state's electricity industry.

A recognised national and international expert in energy policy, markets and Smart Grid innovation, Audrey is a Founder and past President and Chief Executive Officer of Viridity Energy, Inc.

Previously, Audrey was the Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer of PJM, a regional transmission operator of the power grid and wholesale power market across the eastern United States.

Audrey also held legal and executive positions at Xcel Energy, served as General Counsel to the New Hampshire Public Utilities Commission, and was Special Assistant Attorney General in the Minnesota Attorney General's Office.

During her career, she has served on numerous industry-related and non-profit boards, and currently serves on the CSIRO (Australia's national science agency) Energy Advisory Committee and the Melbourne Energy Institute's Advisory Board. Her former board related appointments include positions as Advisor to Secretary of Energy for the US Department of Energy and Advisory Council, New York State Energy Research and Development Authority, the New York State Planning Board and the New York State Emergency Planning Council.

facilitator

Walter Gerardi

Technical Director – Energy Markets, Jacobs

Twitter: @JacobsConnects

Walter has spent over twenty-five years' analysing, understanding and advising on electricity market, renewable energy markets and energy markets more broadly.

He has key capabilities in energy market design, project due diligence, energy market policy and supporting reforms, greenhouse studies and technology assessments.

The main areas of his work cover analyses of the structure of markets, understanding the key drivers and making predictions on market prices, benefit/cost analysis of market reforms, regulatory impact assessments, analysis of tradeable instruments for meeting renewable and evaluation of carbon abatement policies (including for the Independent Review into the Future Security of the National Electricity Market).

He also has extensive experience in negotiations on tariffs for the supply of electricity and gas to major industrial customers, structuring fuel supply arrangements and structuring supply arrangements for generators (both renewable and fossil fuel generators). He has also undertaken numerous due diligence studies for both new generation and acquisitions of generators, both renewable and fossil fuel and in both the NEM and the WEM.

about CEDA

CEDA is an independent, not-for-profit membership organisation. CEDA identifies policy issues that matter for Australia's future and pursue solutions that deliver better economic, social and environmental outcomes for Australia. CEDA's cross-sector membership spans every state and territory and includes more than 780 of Australia's leading businesses, community organisations, government departments and academic institutions.

Membership

Organisations join CEDA because CEDA delivers exposure to high level thought leadership, timely briefings on issues of economic importance, access to networking and brand reach through sponsorship and hosting opportunities. In addition to high profile public events, CEDA also delivers regular member only events for employees of member organisations and exclusive Trustee only boardroom briefings for senior executives from member organisations. These provide a unique opportunity for peer-to-peer knowledge exchange and for speakers and attendees to talk candidly on issues.

Research and policy

CEDA's only agenda is to pursue good public policy to progress Australia's economic and social development. Since 1960 CEDA has produced more than 3000 publications, research reports and articles highlighting emerging issues and directions in a diverse range of policy areas. Research in 2019 will focus on Australia's long-term budget position, the effects of temporary migration, a survey of Australian businesses on their approach to economic development, and new approaches to addressing entrenched disadvantage.
